

Zumtobel Joins U.S. Green Building Council

Zumtobel Lighting, Inc. has become a member of the U.S Green Building Council, the leading organization in green building and development.

The mission of the USGBC is "To transform the way buildings and communities are designed, built and operated, enabling an environmentally and socially responsible, healthy, and prosperous environment that improves the quality of life."

The USGBC's LEED® (Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design) Green Building Rating System™ is the standard for measuring a building's sustainability. Zumtobel currently offers several products that may help a project earn LEED credits, and has provided the light fixtures for several important LEED certified and LEED registered projects.

As a member of the USGBC, Zumtobel will enjoy access to publications, tools, and materials that will help the company to move forward as a leader in energy-efficiency and sustainable lighting.
